SAUVIGNON BLANC REPORT 2020

Durbanville Hills

UNWOODED | WOODED | SAUV-SEM BLENDS

ABOUT THE WINEMAG.CO.ZA TASTING PROGRAMME 2020

Winemag.co.za is set to produce 14 category reports over the course of the year. Each report is based on the outcome of a blind tasting of wines entered within the specific category.

We will announce a Top 10 with the release of each successive report. Producers of the Top 10 will be notified and are able to purchase newly designed Top 10 stickers while producers of the remaining wines may acquire regular rating stickers – consumers are encouraged to look out for these in the retail environment.

The programme culminates in an event where the individual best wine per category will receive an award and ratings on the 100-point quality scale for all the Top 10 wines will be revealed.

The Best of Category wines will subsequently be shown at tastings in both Johannesburg and London should Coronavirus regulations permit.

JUDGING PROCEDURES

The judging panel was chaired by me and further consisted of two trusted colleagues, namely Roland Peens and James Pietersen, both of Wine Cellar, Cape Town merchants and cellarers of fine wine. We tasted blind, ratings done according to the 100-point system. Final scores were awarded on the basis of discussion that involved retasting where necessary rather than relying solely on arithmetic averaging.

Christian Eedes, Editor, Winemag.co.za

KEY FINDINGS

Sauvignon Blanc-Semillon blends have been the focus of an annual report as generated by the Winemag.co.za team since 2013, Wooded Sauvignon Blanc subsequently included in 2017 and for the first time this year, Unwooded Sauvignon Blanc.

To some extent, Unwooded Sauvignon Blanc has been disregarded until now because of the potential enormity of the undertaking. Sauvignon's share of the Cape's vineyards is ever increasing and now stands at 10.5%, behind only Chenin (18.6%) and Colombard (11.5%) in the line-up of white grapes. Of SA's 10 most prevalent varieties, only Sauvignon and Pinotage are more widely planted than they were a decade ago. Sauvignon Blanc is a huge success story and deserves to be taken seriously even if some of those of a more hipster inclination are inclined to dismiss it.

What did the panel encounter this year? We tasted a total of 115 wines, 65 being Unwooded, 28 being Wooded and 22 being blends. Of the Unwooded, 28 of the line-up (43%) rated 90-plus on the 100-point quality scale; of the Wooded, 19 (68%) rated 90-plus; and of the blends 15 (68%) rated 90-plus. Whereas Unwooded Sauvignon often succeeds on account of its primacy of flavour, the use of oak and the addition of Semillon as a blending component are both intended to add complexity and it would seem that producers are largely successful in this regard.

As Sauvignon Blanc is vulnerable to heatwaves and loses its aromatic intensity quickly under such conditions, it is generally thought to perform best in the Cape's cooler areas or at least sites that are ocean-influenced and this was largely borne out in this tasting with the likes of Darling, Durbanville, Elgin and Elim all being represented among the top performers. That said, Stellenbosch was also very much to the fore – it has 27% of all Sauvignon Blanc plantings, the most of any area in the country.

As for styles, the panel appreciated that there seems to much more synergy when it comes to the two key aroma and flavour determinants, namely methoxypyrazines (the chemical compounds responsible for grassy, green pepper characters) and thiols (grapefruit, granadilla and pineapple). There seems to have been a shift away from the overtly "green" wines that prevailed 10 or 15 years ago without too much of a swing toward the very heady style typically associated with New Zealand Sauvignon.

The average cellar-door price of the Unwooded Sauvignon Blanc Top 10 was R122,30 a bottle with Zevenwacht 7even 2020 at R70 the most affordable; the average price of the Wooded Top 10 was R170,60 a bottle with Le Bonheur The Weather Blocks 2020 and Mulderbosch 2019 jointly the most affordable at R100 each; and the average price of the Sauv-Sem blends Top 10 was R291,90 a bottle with Flagstone Treaty Tree Reserve 2018 the most affordable at R135 a bottle.
